Comments:

Attached is a copy of another Dec reference cited on the 3/15/04 action. This is chapter 5 of the chapter 4 we discussed in the interview. Pg. 5-59 details a print screen GUI wherein the user sets the time delay. Pg. 5-61 details that after the time delay has been entered and a send and print command selected, the user can arrange the objects on the screen and when the time delay has ended, depending on your selection the whole screen is saved to a file and/or printed. It may be beneficial to include have the claims allude to the operation not being performed based on the both the time delay and a condition.
